1

secondprinting
`\closein` $\langle number \rangle$

This command tells TₑX to close the input stream numbered $\langle number \rangle$, i.e., end the association between the input stream and its file. The input stream with this number then becomes available for use with a different file. You should close an input stream once you're finished using its file.

Example:

```
\closein\auxfile
```